A new state and federally funded program designed to reduce the number of burglaries in the four North Orange County cities of Placentia, La Habra, Brea and Yorba Linda was initiated this week by Placentia Police Chief Norman Traub.

The new program, designated as the Quad City Crime Prevention Program, became official last Tuesday when the Orange County Board of Supervisors signed the joint powers agreement for the one-year effort. The project will be headquartered in Placentia's City Hall.

Chief Traub, Project Director, named burglary investigator, Agent Roger Gisler, as the Project Coordinator. Gisler will be responsible for training the six civilian Community Service Aides and coordinating their activities within the four cities.

In addition, Gisler will be responsible for gathering burglary statistics from the four cities and establishing high crime rate target areas.

The CSAs will then be deployed in these areas to conduct security inspections and to mark and record property for identification. Gisler will then follow up within 60 days of initial contact with the resident to observe compliance with security recommendations.

Placentia Police Chief Norm Traub, La Habra Police Chief Ron Meehan, and Brea Police Chief Don Forkus (Yorba Linda is under contract for police services to the City of Brea) agree that the success of this program depends upon the cooperation of all residents living within the four cities.

Burglaries can be reduced if the residents will follow the CSA's recommendations for building security, if they will identify their property, and if they will make themselves aware of strangers or unusual activity in their areas and in turn notify the police.

Many burglary suspects could be apprehended in the act of committing a burglary if only an observing neighbor would take the time to call their local police, Agent Gisler points out.

Coordinator Gisler advises that security inspections will deal basically with adequate door (including garage doors) and window security, lighting, and seeing that residents record the serial numbers or identify by engraving their California driver's license number on property most commonly taken by burglars.

The most common types of property taken in residential burglaries are small portable television sets, radios, stereos, cameras, guns, jewelry and cash. The importance of recording the serial number or identifying a C.B. radio in one's vehicle will also be stressed.

As jewelry presents a special problem, because of its small size or lack of area for engraving, the CSAs will be stressing the importance of photographing jewelry, using a close-up camera with color film.

As most people do not possess such a camera, it is hoped that in the near future, the program will be able to obtain such a camera and make it available to residents.

Gisler advises the homeowner must take the initiative if he does not want to become the victim of a burglary. For a small initial investment he may be protecting

Utilities High? Ponder PUSD's

Homeowners and businessmen who are watching their overhead escalate, might consider the plight of the 21-school Placentia Unified School District.

Trustees of the district last week were given a look at their utility bills for 1975-76. Telephones cost $84,196; gas $79,187; electricity, $585,343; water, $77,306; outside laundry, $325 and trash disposal $10,945.

That adds up to $837,302 for those few bare essentials.

Golf Course In Planning

A permanent golf course for Placentia moved a step closer last week as the city's planning commission approved site development plans for greens to extend across Alta Vista Street.

Presented by golf course developer M. Dee Johnson, Fullerton, the new arrangement will relocate nine holes of the 18-hole course south of Alta Vista Street on land owned by the Kraemer family.

North of the thoroughfare, where the course now stands, will be situated the other nine holes with the clubhouse remaining in its present location. The north property is owned by the Chapman and Wickett families.

Homes will be built around the greens on both sides of the street.

Johnson, in appearances in January before the city council explained at that time that he thought someday the course would be owned by the city.

"The city, in some cases, can operate it a lot cheaper than we can," Johnson explained.

"It's not profitable to go out and build a country club today on anything other than this type of land that we have an interim use on, of oil fields. You can't go out and pay $10,000 or $15,000 an acre for land and build a golf course. It's just impossible to come out with the

New Fee Adds To Cost Of Property

A new method of collecting monies for local thoroughfare improvements, which will add approximately $115 to each new single family home built in Placentia, Tuesday night received approval of the Placentia City Council.

The vote was split 4 to 1 with Mayor Pro Tem William Rashford

Trains Audible In $100,000 Homes

The Midnight Choo Choo may be leaving from Alabama, but the ones chugging through Placentia, appeared this week to be disturbing a number of sleepers.

The trouble is emanating from a zone occupied by residents of the newly building S and S (Shapell) homes that about the Santa Fe Railroad track on the southern border of the city. The homes are in the $80,000 through $100,000 category.

The development is the first increment of a large section of homes east of Placentia City Hall, now under construction by the Beverly Hills based builder. Of the 191 single family luxury homes planned, with 45 completed and occupied, 129 have already been sold. With only model homes completed on 126 patio homes by S and S, 23 have already been purchased.

The trouble in Paradise, however, seems to be coming from the Santa Fe's night freights, which reportedly are disturbing the slumbers of the first 45 families occupying the Shapell houses.

The problem was brought to the attention of city council members Tuesday night by Edwin Powell, City Administrator, who explained that meetings are being held between members of the Placentia Village Homeowners Association, representatives of Shapell and city staff.

"We are trying to arrive at a means by which we might reduce the speed of the train and check the roadbed because they are saying that it is causing a lot of vibrations and they are blowing the whistle excessively," Powell explained.

Councilwoman Virginia Farmer questioned the stipulations in the Environmental Impact Report for the development.

"One of the considerations should have been that railroad," Mrs. Farmer declared. "It is very well known to anyone who has lived in this town for more than one year that that railroad is noisy. It vibrates and everything else. I don't understand. These people had a real estate report to read. It's in there."

Mayor George De Jesus added:

A Special Time—A Special Place

With School Days to be again in the near future, what was it like in Placentia in the good old School Days?

Apparently a lot less crowded in 1919, although youngsters came 32 to a room in the fifth grade.

Among the souvenirs of Crysteen Cook McGuire, who attended school at the Bradford School in Placentia, is a picture probably of a fifth grade class. Mrs. McGuire now lives in Joshua Tree. And the Bradford School, in which the picture was taken, on the present Valencia High School campus, reportedly burned to the ground.

Many of the youngsters shown in the class bear familiar names and some still live in the city where they attended fifth grade.

The teacher was Elena Kraemer, Mrs. Ardeth Wagner Hanson, recalls. Mrs. Hanson a member of a well known pioneer family, lives in Placentia in one of its heritage homes.

She and school chums Anna Allec Cushing, also in the picture and Ysadora McFadden Brower, have set about to identify as many of the youngsters in the picture as possible. Historian George Key also has assisted.

Mrs. McGuire in addition has among her memoirs her eighth grade diploma, which was awarded her from the State of California instead of under local auspices like today. The date of that is 1922.

The message on the back of the diploma, addressed to the young students, was both endearing and admonishing. It read: "Today when you receive this diploma of graduation, I want you to imagine that a hand is reaching out to you

IT WAS A VERY IMPORTANT YEAR, possibly 1919 when this fifth grade class posed prettily for their picture inside the old Bradford School, no longer standing. Efforts were being made this week to identify the young students and anyone able to fill in the blanks or make corrections is encouraged to call The Placentia Courier at 528-2525. Partial identification includes, standing around the room, left clockwise, the teacher Elena Kraemer, Dorothy Bielefeldt, (2 blanks), Harold Tayles, Louise Kraemer and Charles Thamer. In the first row on the left, Arthur Hardison, Frances Ipsen, Flora Steen, Ardeth Wagner (Hanson) and Bud George Forster. In the second row: Cleo Holder, Bob Dowling, Margaret Yorba, John Piepenbrink (b blank), Juanita Mendotti and Joe Raya. In the third row: Clarence Boardman, Leo Enfield, Anna Allec (Cushing), (a blank), Carry Peralta, Crysteen Cook (McGuire) and Florence Johnson. In the fourth row, Lillian Cox, Inez Young, Lawrence Richards, Margaret Chose, Dorothy MacIntosh, Joe Reyne and Johanna Lemke. (Other pictures, Page 2).

PUSD Non-Teacher Contract

A proposed labor contract, which does not include a salary offer, was released this week by the trustees of the Placentia Unified School District.

The contract concerns 460 classified or non-teaching employees of PUSD, represented by the Classified School Employees Association chapter 293 (CSEA).

A public hearing on the proposals is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, August 16 in the district board room, 1301 East Orangethorpe Avenue, Placentia.

Following the hearing, negotiators for the district and CSEA will begin the collective bargaining process which became law last month.

Representatives of CSEA presented their proposal in June, asking for a 12 per cent cost of living general salary increase, a cost of living contingency fund "to offset possible loss of future purchasing power" and a fully paid fringe benefit package, including dental coverage.

In addition, the employees proposal asked for an adjustment in summer session secretarial-clerical salaries, half-paid benefits for three-hour employees, benefits for retired employees and their spouses and a retirement option at age 55. Also additional vacation after seven years and a paid holiday during spring recess.

The 19-page management proposal "follows current practice as outlined in district policies, the classified employees' handbook and the Education Code," according to Roger Scott, the district director of classified personnel who will negotiate for the district.

The management contract does not include a salary offer, leaving that area open for negotiation. However, the district budget adopted this month does include money for longevity raises for employees this year, Scott said.

Fringe benefits offered in the contract remain the same as that available during the past year and includes Blue Cross health insurance, an annual physical examination and prescription drug coverage.

Oil Well Site Draws Strong Protest

BY JIM ARKISON

YORBA LINDA—Stymied in what he claims have been countless and fruitless attempts to have the area around an oil well tank farm on adjacent property cleaned up, Richfield Road resident Chuck Huffman is hoping a section in the newly amended city ordinance on animal control will result in some positive action.

Huffman last week invited a reporter and photographer from this newspaper to visit the tank farm south of his property at 5332 Richfield. He pointed out the carcasses of an unknown number of dead birds in a large puddle of oil. The birds, the irate man declared, believe the oil to be water and are trapped and die when they alight and try to drink the liquid.

Huffman used a broom handle to lift the remains of two large barn owls from the oil. He said the owls had lived in a barn on his property.

While there is considerable oil on the ground around four tanks most of it is concentrated in one large puddle. Considerable debris also litters the top of the liquid.

Huffman said that he has lived at the location for about 16 years and had jostled with both Orange County and City of Yorba Linda officials about the condition of the abutting property. His battle shifted from the county to city authorities when Yorba Linda incorporated nine years ago.

The complainant's main concern has been that the area is a "dangerous attraction" to children who live in nearby residential developments. Although the four tanks and the oil on the ground are confined within a dike the location is STAIRWAYS lead to two of the four tanks, giving easy access to the top of the tanks, two of which have openings. Huffman claimed that he has had to discourage many youngsters from nearby residential areas from playing in the area and climbing the stairs to the tank tops.

About Those School Taxes

Copy to the Placentia Courier

Subject: Assessed valuation and tax rates

Since district homeowners have received their notices of increases in assessed valuation of their properties, I have gotten numerous calls and letters from upset patrons who apparently feel the schools are going to reap great benefits. I'm sure there are many others who are concerned and angry from whom I have not heard.

I don't blame homeowners for being upset about the sharp increase in taxes, but they are misinformed about how our schools are financed. In truth, the schools get the same amount of money they would get if assessed valuation had not increased. Under state legislation passed in 1973, each district is limited to a certain amount of money, a figure determined through complicated formulas that used student attendance, previous tax rates and income sources, etc. When assessed valuation increases, more of the district income comes from local sources; the state contribution drops proportionately. The schools get the same amount either way, under the school equalization principle.

Unfortunately, this year our school tax rate is going to increase slightly—probably about 13 cents to $4.69/$100 AV, because we have a larger-than-usual state school building debt loan repayment to meet this year. The state repayment is expected to decline next year.

In comparing our tax rate to the other 11 unified districts in Orange County, we find Placentia is third from the bottom. Only Laguna Beach, which is small and rich, and Santa Ana, which is large and poor, are lower. Saddleback Valley, which is comparable to Placentia in size and growth, has the highest rate with $6.40.

A comparison of Placentia with 22 other districts in Orange and Los Angeles counties which are comparable in size shows us sixth from the bottom in tax rate and fifth from the bottom in base revenue (the amount allowed by the state for each student). Placentia's base revenue of $1,096.70 per student is, again this year, the lowest in Orange County.

With this information at hand, I am proud that we can offer one of the best if not THE best—educational programs and facilities in the area. And we have the test scores to prove it!

Train Troubles

"They do have a real estate report to read, but we do have a real problem. The houses do exist and the railroad exists and now it is incumbent on us, no matter who is at fault, to try to alleviate the situation in some manner."

"Too often the council gets buffeted by the developers," the mayor continued, "because we don't allow them to build and do their thing to make their dollar. Then the realtors say they are the experts. They can sell the houses because that is their business.

"Then the homeowners suggests that we don't want the house to be that expensive. Just keep your cool. I see no reason why the council should become a buffeted agent for all of the problems. I think we should recognize that we do have a problem and all that is being asked by this homeowner association is to contribute some help to try to alleviate the situation."

Councilman Jack Gomez added: "I think we do have a problem. We can approach the railroad that we want a little less whistle and a little less speed and I know that they will be willing to approach it from that way."

Mrs. Farmer: "Reducing the speed doesn't reduce the noise level."

Councilman Don Holt: "I think my forebearers (previous council members), made very bad judgement in putting $80,000 homes next to a railroad. Maybe we do have to kowtow to the developers and real estate people, but I also look at it that the people who have bought there should have bought there with full knowledge that those homes are next to a railroad."

"If we are now going to do everything possible to help these people," Holt continued, "I look to another homeowner association that has said to me that our previous council would do nothing whatsoever to help their position with industrial property (in Brea) abutting their homes."

"Now, if we're going to go against a railroad, why can't we go against a city and try to help another homeowners association that has a similar problem?"

Holt: "It should have been zoned industrial." Gomez: "It was originally zoned industrial."

Powell pointed out that S and S has offered to give the homeowners their money back "moving expenses and all. Effort is being made by the two parties to work together," he added.

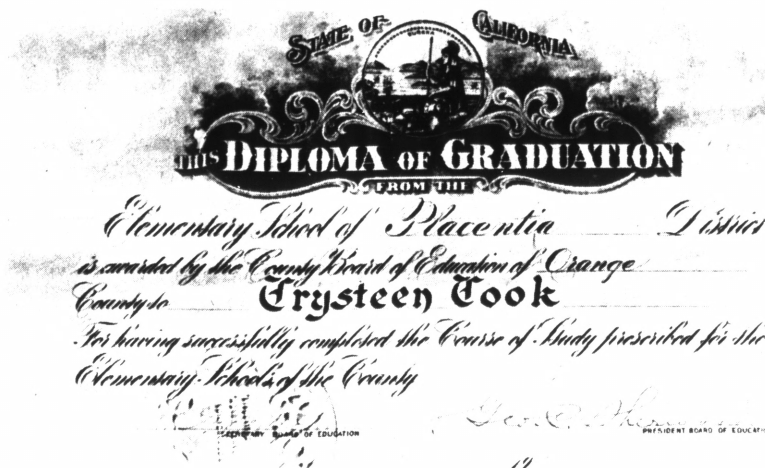

"The homeowners said that the developer at no time misled them. Some property owners said there are more trains than they were led to believe. S and S said they would spend additional funds to put more buffer area between the homes and the right of way." The tracks, at that point, actually are in the city of Anaheim, Powell pointed out.

City staff was directed to continue working with the homeowners who reportedly will be holding more joint meetings.

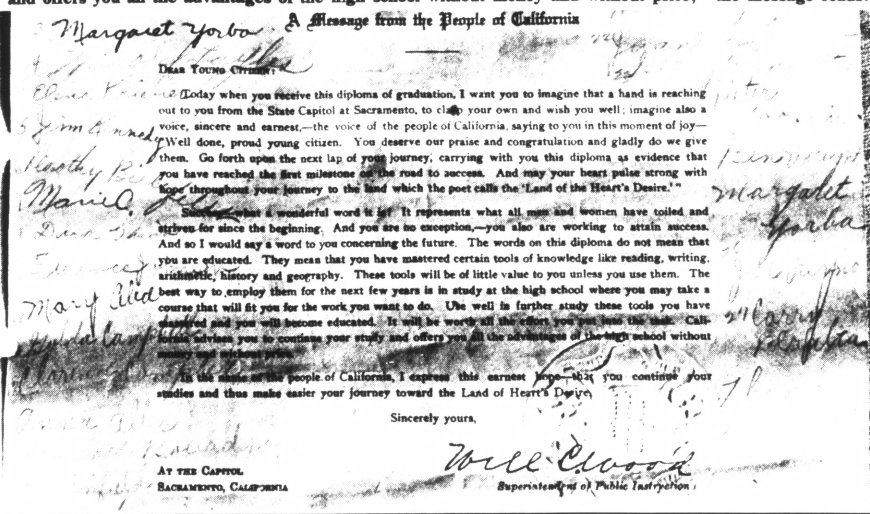

Another tank whose top is not reachable by the stair ladders has a similar opening. According to Huffman, the tanks are only partially filled with a mixture of oil and water and have no interior ladders to get out.

The tanks are part of an oil well operation. The well is situated out of sight over the crest of a small hill which rises from behind the tanks. The oil flows from the well into the tanks and the water and oil are separated. The water goes into a sewerage system and the oil is stored until enough accumulates to be siphoned off into a tank truck.

That was the explanation of the well/tank farm owner, Walter Nollac. An employee in the engineering department for the City of Irvine and a former Planning Commission Chairman in Placentia, Placentia resident Nollac said the property is one of the three well/tanks he owns. Another is in

THIS 1922 DIPLOMA presented by the Bradford School, emanated from the State of California in Sacramento and admonished the recipient to complete her education. This document belongs to Crysteen Cook McGuire. The message on the back advised the young student to use the tools of knowledge she had attained. "Use well in further study these tools you have mastered and you will become educated. California advises you to continue your study and offers you all the advantages of the high school without money and without price," the message reads.

Thoroughfare Fee

be approximately $799,680, will then be used for traffic signals, concrete box culverts or widening under arterial streets, Ben Minamide, Director of Community Development for the city outlined.

The equation is built on the theory that 75 per cent of use of city streets is by local people and 25 per cent from outside. Therefore city residents will be asked to bear 75 per cent of the expense of the thoroughfare improvements.

However, city staff calculates that $610,000 will be needed in the city for culvert construction and $1,880,000 for signals and interconnection installations at the current cost levels.

"It is apparent, therefore, that of the required total culvert and traffic signal revenues of $2.5 million, we can realistically collect only about one-fifth to one-third of that sum," the staff report reads.

Present practice, the report continues, is to collect traffic signal funds from developers. "This method is difficult at best, even when the development abuts a major intersection. This practice gets increasingly difficult to impose," the report states, "and in fact it is virtually impossible to collect funds from developers not near a major intersection even though residents from those developments have an impact on that intersection."

Other monies to add to what is collected from the new ordinance, are expected to come from grants. Arterial street development funds may be available on a 50-50 basis from the county.

"It is recommended that the 75 per cent benefit ratio method be utilized in order that we may derive approximately one-third of the required funding from those who will benefit from the improvements," the report theorizes.

However, the paper states, the entire city will benefit equally from the improved traffic flow. "It would be difficult to distinguish between benefits accruing to residents abutting the thoroughfares as opposed to those in the interior, especially since those in the interior utilize the arterial streets to reach their destination," it was pointed out.

Rashford in dissenting stated: "I see a need for this sort of thing, but I question the amount. All of a sudden, Bingo, we're putting another $110 to $115 on the price of every house. I think it's getting out of hand now. The signalization will be helping everybody who is already here. I hesitate to put that extra burden on that new development at this time."

Councilman Donald Holt spoke in favor of the resolution "because it will be lowering the cost to industry and will bring in more industry and that lowers the tax amount to the homes."

Signals included in the plan range from $21,000 for a signal at Placentia Avenue and Palm Drive (half to be paid by Fullerton) to $132,000 for interconnecting ten signals on Kraemer. Seven culverts and bridges are listed.

Nollac told this reporter that if there are dead birds in the oil sump "they must have been dead when they were thrown in there. They have no reason to go in the oil."

"You can check with an ornithologist," Nollac said, "and he'll tell you the only birds that go into a pond are ducks and this is not big enough for them. I've never had dead birds in my other two oil properties," Nollac asserted.

When informed that the situation had been brought to attention by Huffman and another nearby resident, Floyd Buckmaster, Nollac indicated he was familiar with their complaints.

Queried about the holes in the top of two tanks the owner described them as "six inch holes for gauging."

Huffman, in recalling his many attempts to have the area made safe, said that he occasionally got some action out of county officials but has had little success with Yorba Linda city officials.

"Ivan Smith (YL building department) looked at it, declared it to be illegal and promised to talk to the owner about cleaning it up but nothing was ever done," Huffman alleged.

He added that police officers from the city looked at the holes in the tank tops but that the metal flaps were just pushed down into place.

Although a "fire marshal from the city said he had never seen anything 'so illegal' there was no follow up action," Huffman said.

Mrs. Furtado is making scrapbooks for her two sons Barry and Gary McGuire, tracing their family tree and heritage. Crysteen Cook McGuire is their grandmother.

This week anyone who recognizes anyone in the picture is invited to supply names and whereabouts. The information is also desired for an upcoming reunion of the class as they passed another milestone... their graduation from Fullerton Union High School. That group expects soon to hold its 52nd year reunion.

tremendous investment you have in it." Johnson reported to the planning commission Tuesday that the property is now selling for $30,000 to $50,000 an acre.

"Golf courses are owned by the cities that can afford them or they're developments like Yorba Linda Country Club," he outlined. "Somboddy comes in and develops around it, makes their money and then boom they're gone. Then they sell it to the members. Then the members are stuck with a large monthly fee and some large assessments," Johnson added.

The local golf courses will be included in a 361 acre Residential Planned Community (RPC) development, encompassing both sides of Alta Vista Street, east of Kraemer Boulevard. The properties are owned by 32 different members of the three families.

The acreage has been granted a 7.1 density to the acre factor with the golf course occupying 129 acres of the property. The entire package has been formulated into a joint families ownership. The non-golf course area is expected to hold 2,563 living units.

"The golf course is going to lend itself to a very fine development," Johnson told the council in January. "We believe it is going to be one of the finest developments that Placentia has ever had." The total construction, it was outlined, may take as long as 10 or even 20 years to complete.

Huffman and Buckmaster, had set a time limit on clearing the property and if it is not complied with it will be turned over to the city attorney for action on behalf of the city.

Huffman, who expressed weariness over his long crusade, said he will continue to "scream and holler as I have done in the past."

"But I read in your paper that the city has now been declared a 'bird sanctuary.' Maybe they will take some action on this score," Huffman concluded.

Sixty children, ages 6-16, attended the summer camp HATALI located in Santa Maria. Camp activities included swimming, hiking, arts and crafts and educational studies.

Club President Gary Kluge stated, "these kids look forward to camp each year...and the 20/30 Club is pleased at having the opportunity to provide the camp." Next year the camp will be at Catalina.

The Anaheim Club sponsors many fund raising activities throughout the year for this annual event. Although many supplies are donated, the camp costs in excess of $10,000 to operate. Childrens Hospital of Orange County furnishes medical personnel. The Anaheim 20/30 Club meets at 12:00 Noon every Tuesday at the Foxfire Restaurant in Anaheim. For information call Kluge at 997-1050.

Anaheim School Groundbreaking

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Woodsboro Elementary School in the Placentia Unified School District were held at 10 a.m. Thursday, following awarding of a $1.77 million for construction contracts last week.

The new school, which is located between Esperanza Road and La Palma Avenue east of Imperial Highway in Anaheim, is a kindergarten through sixth grade facility of 36,740 square feet. Projected completion date is next June.

Contracts for $125,329 for site preparation and $1,539,950 for construction and landscaping were awarded by district trustees to Montank & Son of Fountain Valley and Robert G. Fisher Co., Inc., of San Diego, respectively.

The combined winning bids came in approximately $260,000, or 15 per cent, below the amount allowed for the project by the State School Building Program, according to Patrick Bowman, the district's director of planning and construction. Nine companies submitted bids for all or part of the job.

Student capacity for the new school, which will be built in the modified open classroom style of Topaz and Golden elementary schools, is 668. David-Duhaime Associates of Corona Del Mar is the architectural firm for all three of the schools.

GROUNDBREAKING was held Thursday for a new $1.77 million elementary school in East Anaheim, a facility of the Placentia Unified School District. The school is expected to be completed next June. Officiating at the ceremony were PUSD Superintendent of Schools John Tynes [center]; Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Dr. John Mullender [right] and PUSD Trustee Jean Pappas. The school will be called Woodsboro.

Woodsboro, which was named for the street on which it will be built, is the fourth district elementary school to be constructed in the fast-growing east Anaheim area.

Mitsubishi, Hacienda Banks Merge

The Mitsubishi Bank of California has merged with the Hacienda Bank effective July 30, 1978. The merger, pursuant to a previously announced Agreement and Plan of Merger, involved a cash consideration to Hacienda Bank shareholders of approximately $6,000,000 or $11.50 per share. Combined with its new Hacienda Division, The Mitsubishi Bank of California now has assets exceeding $190,000,000.

Hacienda Bank, headquartered in La Habra, has offices in that city as well as West Covina, La Mirada, and Garden Grove. A fifth office opens in Placentia in August and another office has been approved to open in City of Industry.

These offices will now be identified as Hacienda Division/The Mitsubishi Bank of California. The Mitsubishi Bank of California is headquartered in downtown Los Angeles.

Additional offices are located in Los Angeles' Little Tokyo, Gardena, and San Francisco. An additional unopened office is approved for Culver City.

Robert A. Schoeffler, chairman and president of the Hacienda Bank, said, "The affiliation with Mitsubishi gives our customers additional strength in retail as well as commercial and international banking."

Mr. Ishizaka, chairman and president of The Mitsubishi Bank of California, stated, "This merger enables us to better serve both the Orange County area and Los Angeles County. We'll bring additional financial resources and services to the customers of Hacienda Bank. And, naturally, we'll continue the expanded banking hours and other services that are a unique Hacienda tradition."

"We're most pleased that Mr. Schoeffler and Don Castle, executive vice president of Hacienda, will continue with us as management members of the merged bank."

Airman Chandler

Airman Laura J. Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buckner of 5511 Mountain View, Yorba Linda, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for communications specialists.

Airman Chandler, who was trained to operate teletypewriter equipment used in the world-wide Air Force communications system, is being assigned to Costa Mesa, Calif., for duty with a unit of Air Force Communications Service.

States to live in Europe. He worked his way through medical school and became a doctor in 1951.

Antoine settled in Paris, practiced medicine, married and had a family. The practice was successful and he never had the opportunity to come back to the U.S. and California until now.

The Antoinettes, the doctor, his wife and a son, will visit with the Becks through the end of August.

Visitor Surprises Mrs. Beck

Not to be outdone by her husband, Charles Beck, who was recently in the news in connection with the movie "Midway", Mrs. Jeannette Beck of Yorba Linda generated some news herself.

Mrs. Beck was thrilled and surprised on the occasion of her 50th birthday with a visit from her only brother. She had not seen Edward Antoine in 33 years.

When Mrs. Beck was 17 her brother left the United

Crossing Guard Denied

The safe passage of young students from the sections of homes in the vicinity of Bastanchury Road west of Kraemer Boulevard, to their assigned school, Brookhaven Elementary, became a matter of concern for the Placentia City Council Tuesday night.

Part of the area was recently reassigned from Sierra Vista Elementary School, where youngsters crossed Placentia Avenue with student crossing guards to Brookhaven, across Kraemer Boulevard.

A request has been made from homes northwest of the Kraemer-Bastanchury intersection that an adult crossing guard be provided.

Ben Minamide, Placentia's Director of Community

Development reported however, that the corner, which is fully signalized, with walk and don't walk lights, does not qualify for a guard. Requirements are that there be 40 children an hour for each of two hours and 300 vehicles an hour turning through the crosswalk in conflict with the children before a guard can be provided.

The count was more than 50 per cent short of the specification.

Minamide and Placentia Police Chief Norman Traub explained that the walk interval has been lengthened at the intersection for safety reasons.

"The kids would step off the curb and the signal would change to 'don't walk'," Traub reported.

"They became confused and didn't know whether to run across the street or go back."

The schools have reported through Superintendent of Schools John Tynes that the county has ruled it illegal for school funds to be spent either on crossing guards or officers on campus as these are considered functions of the police department. The city has a policy of removing crossing guards from signalized intersections.

The vote by the council to deny the crossing guard was 4 to 1 with Mayor Pro Tem William Rashford dissenting.

The city maintains seven crossing guards at various points throughout the city at a cost of $2,200 each year, Minamide reported.

Land Swap Approved

A land exchange agreement between the Alta Vista Country Club (Alta Vista Limited) and the city of Placentia, relocating the city-owned acreage to be used for a corporation yard, city will seek three proposals for reappraisals and report back with a recommendation, Ben Minamide, the city's Director of Community Development outlined.

Cal Trans has been selected as the city's agent in acquisition of properties along the route and for relocation assistance.

was approved Tuesday night by the Placentia City Council.

The land swap, deemed to be equal, will permit development of the golf course as now designed. Both properties are within Kraemer family lands east of the new City Hall.

The corporation yard acreage, a gift to the city from the late Edward Backs and Mrs. Angeline Backs, will replace the facility now in use, located beside the Whitten Community Center on Melrose Street.

FLY CONTROL ON THE HORSE RANCH - Part 4: APPLICATION OF SPRAYS - To obtain satisfactory results, apply chemicals properly. Keep in mind the following important points when using insecticides.

Use Proper Timing and Application - To get the most out of your investment in surface sprays or baits, apply them: (1) when newly emerged flies first become evident in the spring, and (2) throughout the remainder of the season whenever you first notice that the number of flies is increasing and that the insecticide previously applied is no longer effective.

Do not wait until the fly population has reached excessive numbers before using the recommended insecticide. Depending on the season, female flies are capable of laying their first batch of eggs as early as 3 to 5 days after they emerge from pupae.

Therefore, the earlier you spray after you first observe flies, or note an increase in their numbers, the better the chance that females will contact the insecticide before they are ready to lay eggs.

For the most effect from surface sprays, apply them to areas where flies rest. Large numbers of flies rest at night in the ceiling area of stalls or beneath the roofs of open sheds.

Also, spray the exterior surfaces of feed storage bins, and the inside and outside surfaces of equipment storage buildings and other structures frequented by flies.

Do not spray inside feed storage rooms!! An excellent time to spray inside the stalls or barns is when the horses are taken out to ride, exercise, or to run in the pasture.

At this time, spray the interior of the stalls, including the walls and ceiling, with an insecticide that has a long residual effect.

Before spraying with an insecticide, cover feed troughs, mangers, and watering devices to prevent contamination of feed and water.

Other areas to spray include the outer walls of the stable or barn, the young growth of grasses and weeds between and adjacent to structures, and trees and shrubs within about 5 feet of buildings.

In the spring and fall, pay particular attention to sun-exposed surfaces where large numbers of flies rest on the outside of buildings. During the hotter summer months, flies spend more time congregated in the cooler, shady areas; pay particular attention to these sites during this time.

Do not spray trees and shrubs located more than 10 feet from buildings, because they often serve as primary resting sites for certain natural enemies of flies. Thoroughly spray all surfaces to the point of runoff.

Whenever you spray, it is usually best to spray the premises thoroughly at the sites suggested above. Spot treatments of selected areas are not reliable for effective reduction of large fly population.

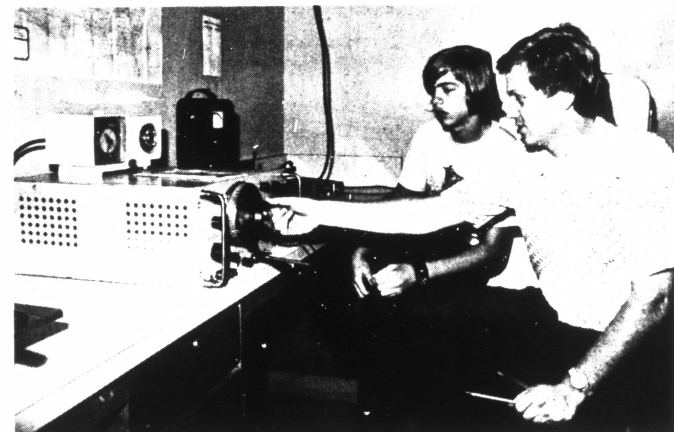

Flies poisoned by slow-acting insecticides may die away from the treated area. The value of the treatment should be judged by the extent of reduction in the number of living flies, not by the number of dead flies. The end!!

VALENCIA HIGH SCHOOL is on the air with its own citizens band radio, an interesting sideline at the school. Student Steve Weatherwax and teacher Craig Miller twist the dials.

CBs On The Air At Valencia

Betty Ford is into it, and calls herself First Mama. Even Snoopy and Woodstock have joined the estimated one million Southern Californians and the over 10 million cars and trucks that have created a whole private language with which to communicate.

What's all the fuss about? It's citizen's band radio (CB for short), and Valencia High School has one, too.

According to Craig Miller, electronics teacher at Valencia, the CB unit was obtained mainly because of the interest expressed in it by the students.

"Also," he said, "A survey of our electronics graduates has shown that a large majority of them are working in some capacity of radio electronics."

Financing of the project came from vocational education funds. "This year, we had about $200 to work with, so we made a proposal to the district in December to purchase the set," Miller explained.

Late in April, the unit was purchased, and the class has been busy setting up the unit and its 30-foot antenna.

On an average day, students can broadcast and receive from 12 to 15 miles. When conditions are especially good, they can reach up to 40 miles.

At present, two students are licensed by the FCC to operate the radio, which is the only one in the Placentia Unified School District.

"Getting a license is fairly simple," Miller noted. "All one has to do is fill out an application, sign to certify that you have read FCC rules and enclose a $4 fee."

Miller hopes that eventually most of the advanced electronics students will get their operators' licenses. Along with operating the radio, those students will study FCC regulations and the way the radio operates.

The project is apart from regular classroom work.

"The kids are getting good practical experience through the use of the radio," said Miller.

WHERE ARE THEY? - Jason DeLuca, who will be 4 in "tober", and his unidentified friend had no luck in finding coins which were buried in straw as one of the activities for children at the recent Family Night Picnic at Yorba Linda Jr. High. Parents and children attended the event sponsored by the Yorba Linda Recreation Dept.

Age Span in Swim Class

Since June 230 persons have participated in swim lessons in backyard, private pools throughout Yorba Linda. The program is run by the YMCA and features classes for all ages.

For instance, a 7 month toddler learned to swim in the Mommy and Me class, while a woman 65 years of age learned to swim in the adult class.

People of all ages; toddlers, tiny tots, school age beginners, intermediate, advanced, and adults have improved their swimming techniques or learned to swim in this community based program.

The next session for all classes, which includes a diving class, will begin August 16th and end

August 27

The classes meet each day, Monday through Friday for two weeks. The classes are very small and cost $27 for toddlers and tots, $22 for all others.

To register or for more information contact the Yorba Linda YMCA at 993-5111. The office is located at 18452 Yorba Linda Blvd.

City Council Approves Less Parking

Placentia City Council members Tuesday night unanimously voted approval of a reduction in the required number of parking space for medical and dental buildings in the city. The former standard of 8 parking places per 1,000 square feet of gross floor area will be reduced to 6.5. Included in the amendment is a provision for using an adjusted gross floor area in some certain circumstances.

The latter leniency would permit the elimination of corridors, foyers and elevator space as part of the gross footage considered.

Medical buildings in the city in the past in some cases have been permitted to lower the parking requirements.

Library Clubs Planning Parties, Show

The Placentia Library's "Read-to-Me Club" will end its summer session with a party.

The party is scheduled for the Wednesday Story Hour and "Read-to-Me Club" on Wednesday, August 18, at 10:15 a.m.

VISITORS TO LAKE HAVASU, Arizona can expect to see familiar faces at the city's bowling alley. The business has just been purchased by Richard Samp and family, soon to leave Placentia. Samp has been with the city of Placentia since July, 1965 and is Director of Recreation and Maintenance Services Department. He and Mrs. Samp (Mary) and youngsters expect to leave in about two months. Left to right they are Patti, Mrs. Samp, Donna and Ken and in front Dick and Doug Samp.

The Thursday group will have its party on Thursday, August 19 at 10:15 a.m. There will be a puppet show and refreshments.

Acreage Complete For Park

Escrow has closed on the remaining 11 acres of ground to be included in the Tri-City Park at the northwest corner of the city of Placentia, Richard Samp, Placentia Recreation and Maintenance Services Director reported this week. Architectural drawings for the 40-acre lake oriented park are completed and will be taken to Sacramento for plan approval by a local delegation.

Work on the park is expected to begin in the next few months. The facility has been in planning for more than two years. The park is owned by Placentia, Fullerton and Brea with assistance from Orange County.

Sept. 15 Deadline For Protest

Homeowners who wish to contest the assessed valuation of their homes must do so before September 15 in Orange County.

Iris Sankey, Member, State Board of Equalization, today reminded homeowners that appeals received after the final filing date cannot be considered.

Ms. Sankey said that if a property owner has not yet received notice of the assessed value of his property, he may obtain the information from the office of his county assessor. Usually that information can be given by phone or mail if the owner can identify his property accurately, preferably by parcel number.

A property owner can contest the assessor's full value estimate if he believes it is excessive. Except for land in the "open space" program, "full value" is defined as the price a willing and knowledgeable seller could obtain for the property from a willing and knowledgeable buyer.

To contest the assessor's full value most effectively, Mrs. Sankey advised property owners to learn the market values of comparable properties in their neighborhood. She also cautioned that owners cannot expect relief merely because taxes are generally high or because the current assessed value is considerably higher than last year's. The current assessed value must be excessive relative to what the property was worth on the statutory lien date of March 1, 1976.

Appeal forms may be obtained from the clerk of each county board of supervisors.

INSURANCE CUT

The Placentia Unified School District Board of Trustees authorized deletion of $5,000 deductible insurance on burglary, theft and water damage to buildings at savings of $8,000 to $10,000 a year.

Moose Win Y Softball

The Moose team, led by manager-player Rob Robinson, posted a 10-0 record in the YMCA men's league to finish in first place. In a well played final game Moose defeated second place Armor All 9-5.

Prior to that loss Armor All's record was 8-1. H and H Grading finished third with a 6-4 record. A new team this season, the Wild Bunch, finished a strong fourth.

In winning the championship Moose featured a powerful offense along with a very stable defense. Seven men hit over .500 for the season and two of them hit .700 making the team average .525.

In 10 games Moose scored 166 runs, hit 16 home runs and posted 211 hits.

On August 1st Moose played a post season game against the All-Stars of the other men's teams in Yorba Linda. The All-Star team won 9-6 to gain a measure of revenge on the undefeated Moose. As winner of the league Moose will now participate in the Southern California Slow Pitch tournament.

The Yorba Linda YMCA fall leagues begin the third week in September. Two men's leagues, a church league and a co-ed league will be available. For more information contact Gary Huff - Director of the Yorba Linda YMCA, at 993-5111.

SANTA SHOPPING in July may be a little unusual but it doesn't hurt to be prepared. Here Paula Glade, 5, contemplates just what will catch her fancy in December when the Yuletide shopping season rolls around again. Giving helpful hints are members of Brookhaven Elementary School's Santa Secret Boutique who will be ready for the PTA-project's Christmas rush with pencil holders, flowers, decorator soaps, puppets, plants and other inexpensive items for young shoppers. In the picture are Nan Keating, Alana Glade, Brookside Vandes and Connie De Masi. Additional volunteers are welcome to assist with the project.

Classes For Deaf

Deaf and hard-of-hearing persons will have an opportunity August 24 and 25 to help select the 16 adult education classes for which the North Orange County Community College District will offer sign language interpreters this fall.

Class preferences may be indicated by telephone or in person during an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. pre-registration session.

The interpreter services are being scheduled at Cypress College in a pilot project to determine the number of area residents whose hearing handicaps have prevented them from participating in adult education classes.

If the pilot project shows sufficient need for interpreter services, classes will be made available later at other of the district's more than 100 locations.

The project is believed to offer the only sign language interpreter services for community college non-credit adult education classes in the Los Angeles-Orange Counties area. Although there are community college credit courses for which the deaf are provided interpreters, re-

Arthritis seldom kills its victim, which may be why research on arthritis has had less emphasis than that directed toward cancer and heart diseases. However, arthritis is the nation's major crippling and causes untold suffering for the 40 million Americans who have it in some degree.

Surgery can now replace joints which arthritis has destroyed, but this is not the cure that medical science seeks. Gout, one form of arthritis, can now be controlled by a drug which corrects for excessive uric acid in the body. This gives rise to hope that other drugs will soon be found that will cure or prevent other types of arthritis.

Whatever drug your doctor prescribes for you, we have it in stock, just bring the prescription to us for fast, precise compounding.

Social, Musical Planned By Presbyterians

Members of the Placentia Presbyterian Church are planning an Ice Cream Social and performance of a musical, "It's Cool in the Furnace" for Friday, August 27.

Ice cream and desserts will be served from 6 p.m. and the musical will be presented at 7 p.m. Fourth through ninth graders are invited to sign up for the production, the church reports.

Auditions for individual speaking parts will be held Sunday, August 15, at 6 p.m.

RAYDRA INTERIORS

When you work with an interior designer, prior to your first appointment, you should plan to do a little homework which will help your communication. Go through all your copies of HOME Magazine, House Beautiful, and anything else you may read, and collect pictures of things you like. Write down needs your family has for particular pieces of furniture, areas for particular kinds of activities, favorite colors, and styles which appeal to you and your spouse.

This enables us to more fully understand your desires and needs within a shorter period of time. It is then up to us to create a fully functional, livable, and attractive environment for you which expresses your desires within the framework of good taste.

Remember, the more we know about your likes and dislikes, the better a job we can do for you to give you a home which you can be proud of, and which can fully express YOUR personality.

We succeed at good design when we take all the input information we have received from you, and have processed it in such a way that the outcome is a well designed, well-coordinated home which reflects the taste and personality of the people who live there.

Storm Drain Fees Waived

A request to waive storm drain acreage fees for an industrial building development on Fee Ana Street in Placentia, was granted Tuesday night by the Placentia City Council.

Petitioner was Robert Morse of Keystone Properties.

Morse, however, will be required to construct 200 feet of the master planned storm drain equivalent to the frontage of his property, at a cost of approximately $11,000.

A second agreement with the city will permit the builder to be reimbursed for that construction as storm drain funds accrue over a ten year period.

DECIDING WHAT YOU WANT TO BE when you grow up takes a little consideration. So some thought on the matter was given recently at McFadden Elementary School in Placentia where a Career Fair was organized. Here Madeline Hernandez contemplates the fun and work of owning a pet shop. It might be a temptation to take all the merchandise home. Here Military Policeman Gary Soper also takes a look.

Parent Course Offered

A new series of Parent Effectiveness Training (PET) classes, sponsored by Alpha Center, will begin Wednesday, August 25 at 7 p.m. The course will be conducted at Calvary Church by Fred Reyes, Executive Director of the center.

Gary Lane, Family Education Director of Alpha

Center, describes the course as designed to equip parents with an alternate method of dealing with parent-child and parent-parent friction.

Lane says that PET "provides theory and practice in methods of increasing family harmony and decreasing resentment and antagonism." and adds that parents who believe they are doing a good job but want to do better, as well as those who see danger signals and already have programs, can benefit from the course.

Further information is available on the course and fees from Lane at Alpha Center 993-4400.

City To Buy More Paintings

After a brief discussion on taste in art and color schemes, members of the Placentia City Council, on a split vote, approved a $500 purchase award to the celebration in October. Mayor George De Jesus, who is a sculptor by avocation, abstained from voting and Councilwoman Virginia Farmer voted no.

Placentia Art Association. The fund will be used to purchase art for the city at a juried show to be held in connection with Placentia's Heritage Festival Days

Concerning placing a member of the council on the jury panel, De Jesus exclaimed that "the mayor has been castigated for contributing some of the things that are hanging in City Hall now." Selections made by a City Hall art commission, including De Jesus are noticeably abstract and the commission's selections are primarily in one vein.

Mrs. Farmer, voting no, objected to no thought being given to color schemes where the paintings will be used. Last year's selections from the city's purchase award, resulted in two paintings of the Bradford House and one of the Pierotti home, which one City Hall observer pointed out "isn't even in Placentia...it's in Fullerton." Last year's paintings were limited to heritage themes.

Selection of the paintings will be left up to professional judges chosen by the art association it was decided by the three votes of Mayor Pro Tem William Rashford and Councilmen Donald Holt and Jack Gomez. Holt had questioned: "At what time do we get to the saturation point in paintings in our city facilities?" Mayor De Jesus replied: "The first time they come before us and we tell them no."
